Do you know that Andy Carroll is the only surviving railroader who knows how to get a cold without catching it? Andy always gets a cold scientifically and then gets rid of it on the installment plan, like most of us pay for automobiles.

FOR WORMS: Take the brain of a sheep and make soup of it in an iron pot. When the soup is cooling carry it to the stable and stir it three times around with a cow's tail. Let the soup stand three days then take a bowl each morning before sunrise.

AN EXCELLENT PLASTER.

Take two quarts of cider, boil a handful of rabbit droppings in it till it makes a thick paste. This must be cooked over a gentle fire and is much better when made in the dark of the moon.

HOUSE CLEANING.

Cy Grosvenor says, sez he, "If I ever got married again I'd have it writ right inter th' contract in black and white, that besides Love, Honor and Obey there'd be no damn house cleanin' only once in twenty-five years."

"You know," resumed Cy, as he bit off the second chew of plug, "them damn house cleanin' spells that the women come down with every Spring and Fall, sap the very cream out ov life and hav' ruined many a poor man's health years befor' it was time for him to start goin' down hill."

"I'll vote fer th' twentieth amendment, when it comes up, if they'll only promise to outlaw them damn house cleanin' spells," concluded Cy, as he shoved in the third bite of plug.
